

Granbury Backs the Blue

By Gary Pulver

In addition to the big race in Dallas on the night of July 28, Satellite races were held throughout the state to support the Run for the Blue 5K. I was very proud to participate in one of the races in Granbury.

A group dressed in blue assembled at the Square in Granbury at 7:15 where donations were collected to be sent to the families of the five fallen Dallas officers. The temperature was 99 degrees but rain had passed through Granbury in the past hour and more clouds were on the way. Runners were only a few minutes into the race when the clouds opened up and the wind started blowing hard. It rained the entire length of the race but not one runner was upset. We all welcomed the chance to run in what was the coolest it had been all month. Temperature gauges showed it was 76 degrees at the end of the race. No times were taken as this was advertised as a fun run but Thomas Rogers appeared to be leading the way.
